For example, to solve the system of equations  $x + y = 4$ ,  $2x - 3y = 3$ , isolate the variable x in the first equation to get  $x = 4 - y$ , then substitute this value of y into the second equation to get  $2(4 - y) - 3y = 3$ . This equation simplifies to  $-5y = -5$ , or  $y = 1$ . Plug this value into the second equation to find the value of x:  $x + 1 = 4$  or  $x = 3$ .

The class then turns its efforts to the Collaborative Work: Creating and Solving Equations and Inequalities.. Students work on the problems in small groups (3-5 students) and I am rotating between groups. For my honors class, I have all groups complete all the problems, and assign one problem to each group to present to the class.
